The perfect place to play
in the middle of the countryside.

In breathtaking Zugertal, 1,500 metres above sea level, you will find the Lech Golf Course, the highest golf course in Austria. On what is probably the only level area of land in the whole Arlberg region, the brand new 9-hole Lech course nestles in the high Alpine mountain countryside as if it had always been there, promising top-quality golfing pleasure for both new recruits and old veterans alike.

GOLFING HOLIDAYS
AT THE HIGHEST LEVEL

Golfing holidays in Lech
Relaxation at the highest level.

When we say golfing holidays in Lech are at the highest level, we are talking about more than just the altitude. Being located in the centre of the most exclusive holiday region in Austria, with all the benefits this entails, brings together a complete package for our members and guests which sets new standards in comfort, enjoyment and lifestyle.

Berghof practice facility
For getting your licence or practising your short game.

Berghof, in the village of Lech, offers a driving range with 9 tees, a putting green and a chipping and pitching area with bunkers; perfect for improving your short game or for getting your licence. However, the centrepiece consists of the three holes with three tees and corresponding flag positions each. This gives you the option of playing nine different holes.

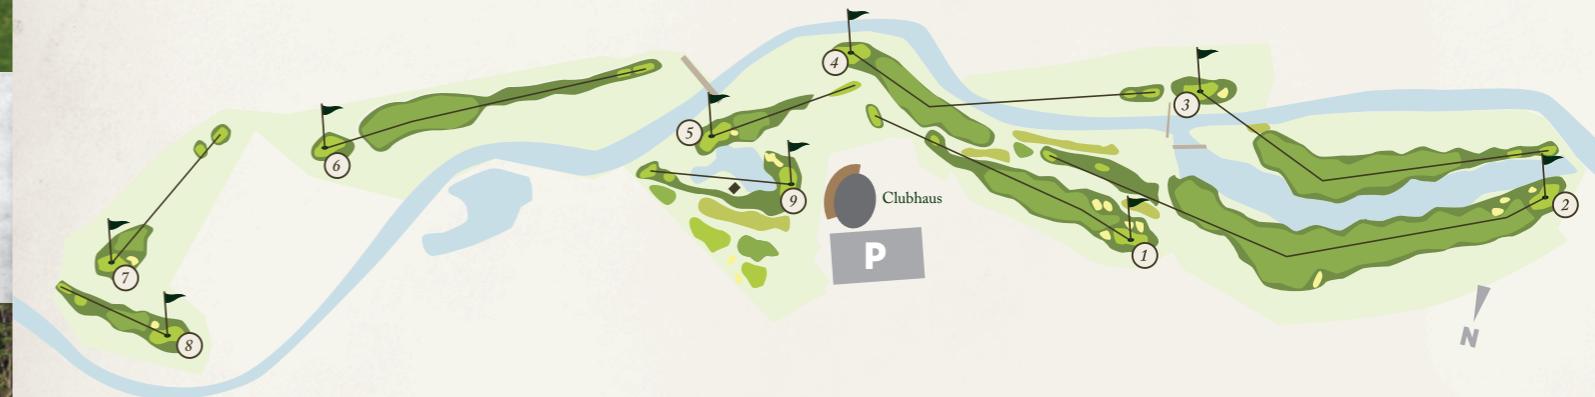

The 9-hole course
in Zugertal
A natural place to play.

The Arlberg and in particular Zugertal have been spared from any drastic tourist cosmetic treatment. It is unadulterated, unique and exceedingly charismatic. Here in idyllic Zugertal not far from Lech the nine holes are situated on both sides of the Lech river. Nature herself determined the lie of the holes. Going upriver, we head towards the Rote Wand as far as Zugertobel. After the 3rd tee, the route runs along the Lech river to the Stierloch stream and then, passing the fishpond, returns back again to the starting point.

You can see the new 9-hole course in Zugertal for yourself in a fly-over video. Just scan the QR code and you're ready for take-off!

- 1 Hole 1
Could there be a better place to start than on a hill with a view to the Rote Wand? This par 4 hole is 191/248 m long and is the ideal hole to start with.
- 2 Hole 2
After the first drive, this par 5 hole nestles into the hillside to the right. To the left, the fairway is protected by an old branch of the Lech river. The green is up on a small plateau by the outlet of the Zugertobel ravine. Length 425/468 m.
- 3 Hole 3
If you are looking for a challenge, you will love this hole. After a 210/239 m drive, you play a dogleg to the right and then 100 m over the Lech river to the green for this par 4.
- 4 Hole 4
From a small hill, this hole goes back over the stream. The complete 275/292 m length of this par 4 4th hole is played out along the Lech river.
- 5 Hole 5
This hole is a par 3 with 106/122 m. To the left of the green there is a pond. The water to the right is provided by the Lech river.
- 6 Hole 6
To get to the tee for this hole you have to cross the Lech river via a modern steel bridge. The tee for this par 4, 261/284 m hole is in a clearing in the forest. The first stroke should be straight and then you play onto the green.
- 7 Hole 7
Our 122/140 m long signature hole is played from Stierloch as a par 3. Once you have managed to get the ball over the Stierloch stream, it lands on the idyllic green near the Lech river.
- 8 Hole 8
This hole is once again played up the Lech river. Just before the final hole, this short par 3, 74/79 m long, is laid out along a lane of mountain pines.
- 9 Hole 9
After a comfortable walk past the beautifully laid out Zug fishpond, you find yourself at the tee of the final hole which is a 101/122 m par 3 and is played over a pond.
